Senior and junior undergraduate students in good academic standing, and with strong communication skills, ability to work well in a group, demonstrated initiative, solid writing skills, and familiarity with research methods are encouraged to apply to participate in the University Seminar.

1. Complete the one-page application and submit via email to useminar@tufts.edu. We are currently accepting applications on a rolling basis.

2. You will be informed of your status on a rolling basis.
   - If you are selected to participate, you will be automatically registered in SIS.
   - Since this is a limited-enrollment course, only students who have been selected will be registered.
   - To receive credit for your major/minor you may need to go through the normal petition process within your department – please contact your advisor and/or department chair.

Your eligibility to participate in the Seminar will be assessed and determined by Dean Glaser (A&S) and Associate Dean Knox (SoE). A combination of your academic performance, capacity for the rigor of a graduate level course, and ability to effectively engage in team projects, will be taken into consideration. If you are eligible, your application will be considered by the Seminar Faculty teams who will select course participants. In addition to evaluating individual qualifications, students will be selected in an attempt to create a balance of disciplines, schools and graduate or undergraduate experience in order to create an environment for rich collaboration. Acceptance into each Seminar is subject to the availability of slots.

Please note:
You must submit an application to the Office of the Provost (at useminar@tufts.edu) in order to be considered a candidate, and confirmed and registered as a participant.
