

September 2018 CELT Newsletter

You can't use up creativity. The more you use, the more you have. ~Maya Angelou

Fall Opportunities at CELT

Large Lectures: New Ways to Give Student Feedback

October 12 from 12 - 1:30pm

Using Poll Everywhere for Assessment in Large Classes

November 9 from 12 - 1:30pm

Active Learning Workshop

December 12 from 8:30am - 1:30pm

Visit CELT's website to learn more & RSVP

Introducing Dr. Carie Cardamone, our newest staff member!

Dr. Carie Cardamone is our new Associate Director for STEM and the Professional Schools. Read more about Carie at CELT's website and find her latest blog on clinical teaching at Teaching@Tufts.

Fall Book Groups

Meet colleagues, enjoy a free lunch and book!

Medford:
Sentipensante Pedagogy by Laura Rendón
November 2 from 12 - 1:30pm Learn more.

Effective Instruction for STEM Disciplines
November 2 from 12 - 1:30pm Learn more.

Boston: Creative Clinical Teaching in the Health Professions
December 5 from 12 - 1:30pm Learn more.

December Teaching Symposium with Professor Emerita Laura Rendón

Contemplative Education: Teaching and Learning for Wholeness, Inclusivity and Social Change

December 11 from 9 - 11:30am

Co-sponsored by CELT, The Office of the CDO, and The Social Emotional Learning and Civic Engagement Project. learn more

Timely Teaching Tip

Critical Thinking

The fall is a good time to consider ways we can cultivate our students' critical thinking skills. Check out these articles!

What is Critical Thinking by Donna Qualters, Director of CELT

Critical Thinking: What is it? from Tomorrow's Professor

Unlocking the Mystery of Critical Thinking by Linda Nilson from Faculty Focus

Resources for Faculty

teaching@tufts
Tufts tips for faculty and teaching from local blog posts and CELT & ETS.

National Center for Faculty Development and Diversity supports faculty through mentoring, writing support, webinars and more. Tufts is a member!

Student Affairs Faculty Resource Center
A new resource to help faculty navigate topics from academic advising to health and wellness.

Faculty Focus
a free newsletter that comes via email each week, and is full of great ideas for teaching.

Save the Date

Institute for Learning Assessment (ILA)
Jan 8 -12th

Spring Teaching Conference
May 22nd

Spring Teaching Squares
sign up now!

STAY CONNECTED

